REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

To the Board of Trustees:

I have the honor to present a report on the 60th year of the College, closing on June 30, 1935. During the greater part of this period there were no changes in the personnel of the Board, but to the great regret of her colleagues Mrs. Slattery insisted on offering her resignation in May. As Miss Sarah Lawrence Mrs. Slattery served on the Board for seven years. She resigned after her marriage to Bishop Slattery who was also a member of the Board. After his death Mrs. Slattery was re-elected. Her colleagues on the Board felt constrained to accept her resignation and are glad to have her assurance that her interest in the College will continue. Among the important subjects engaging the attention of the trustees has been that of tenure of membership. As the time approached when the Board was faced with the necessity of losing members if the twelve-year limitation of tenure were enforced, the advisability of lengthening the term of service came up for consideration. Discussion of the matter extended over the greater part of the year and finally resulted in a change in by-laws by which a member may be elected for a third term of six years, making possible a continuous service of eighteen years.

This 60th year brought to a close by retirement the service of several officers of the College. The report of the Dean of Residence calls attention to one of these, Mrs. Paschal, Head of Munger Hall. Mrs. Paschal has made a loyal and efficient contribution to the home life of students for nine years, first at Norumbega and since January 1933 at Munger Hall. Miss Blanche F. Brocklebank, Instructor of Pianoforte for twenty-three years, resigned on account of physical disability. Miss Brocklebank has seen the steady growth in the music department and has had a very real share in this development. Mrs. Olive Dutcher Doggett, Professor of Biblical History, was also obliged to resign because of ill health. The large group of students who, as sophomores, have come under Mrs. Doggett's instruction in Old Testament History, as well as her colleagues, deeply regret her loss from the college circle. By vote of the trustees she was given the title Professor Emeritus. Miss Margaret D. Christian, Assistant Dean of Residence, accepted a call to a similar position at Simmons College. Her loss will be deeply felt by her many friends on the faculty. A warm welcome awaits her whenever her new duties permit a visit to the College.

Very soon after the opening of college, Mrs. Genevieve Schuyler Alvord, Head of Beebe Hall, was taken seriously ill and on October 22 died in the Newton Hospital. After five years as head of houses for freshmen, she had just succeeded Mrs. Wardwell at Beebe Hall. Her warmhearted and vigorous personality will be greatly missed. On August 3 Miss Malvina Bennett, Professor Emeritus of Speech, died at her home in Thetford, Vermont, and on January 19 the College was greatly shocked to learn of the death of Miss Edith S. Tufts, Dean of Residence, Emeritus. It is unnecessary to pay any tribute to Miss Tufts here, for she is too well loved and honored to need any further praise. After recounting these losses it is a pleasure to record the return to the Wellesley community of Miss Alice V. Waite, Professor and Dean Emeritus. Miss Waite and her sister have established a home in the town where their many friends enjoy their hospitality.

A complete list of the changes in the faculty will be found in the Appendix of this report. Special mention should be made of the appointment of Paul Henry Láng as Visiting Lecturer in Music on the Mary Whiton Calkins Memorial Foundation. Although Mr. Láng was able to give only part-time to the College, he has made a notable contribution to the Department of Music, and again the President wishes to express her appreciation to the Alumnae Association for the creation and maintenance of this Foundation. Mention should also be made of the appointment, as Visiting Professor of French, of René Escande de Messières, Agrégé de l'Université, Lecturer at the University of Lyon and professeur de première, Lycée du Parc, Lyon. M.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

de Messières has given the courses hitherto carried by Mlle Mespoulet. Another appointment which should be noted is that of Edna Frances Heidbreder as Professor of Psychology. Miss Heidbreder received the degree of B.A. at Knox College in 1911, the degree of M.A. at the University of Wisconsin in 1918, and the degree of Ph.D. at Columbia University in 1924, and she comes to Wellesley from a position at the University of Minnesota. Although she has been on the staff only this year, she has already made many friends among her colleagues and in the student body. Her last publication, Seven Psychologies, has been very favorably received.

On the recommendation of the Academic Council, the trustees approved a change in the admission requirements, a change which offers more flexibility in Latin and mathematics. A full statement will be found in the Appendix. These changes were the subject of discussion with Smith and Mount Holyoke and in part with Bryn Mawr and Vassar. Various plans were submitted to some fifty secondary schools, both public and private. Although the plans adopted by Mount Holyoke, Smith, and Wellesley were not identical, the differences were not such as to embarrass the secondary schools. These plans go into effect for the students entering in September 1935.

A list of gifts and bequests will be found as usual in the Appendix. In these days when there are so many requests from students for financial aid, the bequest of $1,000 from Mary Frazer Smith to establish a scholarship is especially timely. Miss Smith was chairman of the faculty Committee on Scholarships for several years during her term of service as College Recorder. It is also a satisfaction to record that the Alumnae Fund contributed $2,328 for scholarships. It should be noted that this gift for scholarships was in addition to $5,500 which has been given annually for the Mary Whiton Calkins Memorial Professorship. It is not generally known that the Alumnae Fund maintains the staff in the Alumnae Office at Wellesley, including the publication of the Wellesley Magazine. This means that the Alumnae Fund Committee raised a total of some $27,901. A notable contribution outside of the Alumnae Fund was a gift of $75,000 from Miss Jessie D. Munger of the Class of

'86 toward the construction of Munger Hall, making her total contribution for this building $225,000. Special mention should also be made of an anonymous gift of some $125,000 subject, however, to annuities for a term of years. As usual, the gifts to the Library are mentioned in the report of the Librarian. In this connection it is a pleasure to report that the Italian Government has presented to the Circolo Italiano a collection of three hundred volumes of Italian classics, dating from 1200 down to the 20th century; i.e. from St. Francis to Pirandello. Through the good offices of Professor Bosano, the collection was presented in person by His Excellency Augusto Russo, the Italian Ambassador, and it was received by the President of the College and by the President of the Circolo, Miss Marjory Best, who thanked him in a charming speech given in Italian. This was one of the delightful occasions of the year at which there were gathered in Tower Court living room, to do honor to his Excellency, various distinguished guests from Boston and Cambridge as well as members of the foreign language departments of the College and the students of the Italian department.

The College has received from a group of Boston friends a marble bust of Bishop Lawrence, executed by his daughter, Mrs. Marian Lawrence Peabody. Bishop Lawrence was for twenty-three years a trustee of the College and was President of the Board from 1902-05 and again from March 1914 until September 1915. The bust has been appropriately placed in the trustee room in Green Hall.

As heretofore, a list of lectures and concerts, together with the schedule of Sunday services, will be found in the Appendix. Honors Day brought to us this year President Neilson of Smith College who spoke at the morning chapel service on March 15, taking for his subject the responsibility of scholarship. This year for the second time the Greek department, with the coöperation of the art department, gave out of doors in May the Electra of Sophocles in the original. This is really a genuine triumph for a department which is small in number as, alas, are all departments of Greek in these days.

It is the aim of the administration to ask the trustees to include annually in the budget a provision for some permanent improvement to the college grounds. For some years the lake front below Tower Court hill has been gradually encroached upon by the erosion of the lake until the trees have been endangered. The expense of restoring the beach to its original form and of re-enforcing the roots of the trees has always seemed too great to attempt from current funds. An alumna, who insists upon being unnamed, offered to meet the expense of this restoration. Already a beginning has been made, and during the coming summer further work will be undertaken. Not only will this restoration add greatly to the beauty of the grounds, but it will also preserve the trees on the hillside to the south of Tower Court and make safe and attractive the walk along the lake front. It is the hope of the President that sometime the present boat and crew houses may be replaced by more permanent and attractive structures. Pursuant to the authorization given by the trustees last year, plans were perfected for the construction of a science building to house the departments of chemistry, physics, and experimental psychology. Although this building has not progressed so rapidly as was hoped, it has gone steadily forward and it is still expected that the laboratories will be ready for the opening of college. In the late afternoon of December 3, at an informal gathering of members of the faculty, members of the student body and friends, its cornerstone was laid. When this building is completed, geology will be the only science not permanently and adequately housed. A thorough remodeling of the present quarters of this department should be undertaken or some other adequate plan made for it. Other plant needs which press for satisfaction are the addition to the gymnasium (including a swimming pool), a new infirmary, and an addition to the library. If, within the next three or four years, residence halls for two to three hundred students could be constructed, all the wooden structures on the campus could be removed and at the same time all the undergraduates could be housed on the campus.

Great as are these needs on the plant side of the College, the greatest need of all is an increase in endowment for salaries, scholarships, and graduate fellowships. Unless the trustees realize these needs and keep them steadily to the fore, they will never be filled, and the President will have failed in her duty if she does not insistently bring these matters before this Board.

In closing this report I wish to call attention to the supplementary reports. Even these reports, interesting and full as they are, give an inadequate picture of the college community of some eighteen hundred people whose daily life, concerned primarily with study and research, goes on with scarcely any interruption and with few events that seem to call for special mention.

Again I wish to testify to the loyal coöperation of all my colleagues and at the same time to thank the trustees for their unfailing support.

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

To the President of Wellesley College:

The report made last year on the working out of the provisions of the "new" curriculum can be repeated substantially unchanged this year. These provisions seem to be accepted by students and by members of the faculty as, on the whole, satisfactory although the requirement that a student should at some stated time before graduation pass an examination showing a reading knowledge of French or German (or in special cases, of some third language) has proved unexpectedly difficult for some students to meet. Since the graduation of the Class of 1935, there are no undergraduates left who are not working under the provisions of the new plan.

The work of the Administrative Board, of the Student Records Committee, and of the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction has been carried on as usual with the discussion of various problems connected with the interpretation and administration of faculty legislation. A number of minor changes in this legislation were recommended to the Academic Council in the course of the year, and voted by the Council. The review given in the spring of 1935 by the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction to the plans of departments for courses to be given in the following year took rather more time than that usually allowed by the Committee for this task, because several departments presented plans worked out to meet new problems, or plans involving some new handling of an old problem. Thus, the plans presented by the departments of Latin and mathematics were made out with a reference to changed entrance requirements in Latin and mathematics; and the plans of the Department of Speech involved new provisions for exempting freshmen with good speaking voices from the required work in Speech, and a re-scheduling of the introductory course work in such a way as to allow greater flexibility for student election of such work. But in no case did the new plans adopted mark any radical departure from established policy.

One point about student activities and student interests seems worth recording at this time, although its application is not specifically to the current year but more generally to present day conditions at the College. This point is that although Wellesley College does not give academic credit, as do some of the newer and more "progressive" institutions, for such extra-curricular activities as those of the choir, orchestra, dramatic association, departmental clubs, the Shakespeare Society, the debating society, etc., etc., yet there is a widespread, energetic, and varied interest among the student body in activities of this sort. Classroom interest in music, art, drama, political and economic discussion, etc., extends very naturally to, and expresses itself with more or less directness in, extra-curricular projects of all kinds, some under some sort of faculty supervision, others entirely directed by students. The proof that this is so is made clear to any one whose attention is called to the crowded "social schedule" for the year, and especially to that for the second semester when the many and various projects undertaken earlier in the year are worked out and ready for some sort of public presentation. The practical problem involved in limiting—in the interests of the students' health and academic work—the number of out-of-class activities and events is one that has to be met anew each year by faculty, students, and members of the administrative staff. But the fact that student interest expresses itself so variously and, on the whole, so vigorously in extra-curricular activities that are intellectually and aesthetically worth while, and that often reflect very clearly classroom training and stimulus, is itself a healthy and encouraging sign.

During the year 1934–35, 318 courses were actually given by the various departments, aggregating 659½ hours per week, not including hours duplicated because of additional sections of the same course. These 318 courses include only one course given by the Department of Hygiene, namely the lecture course prescribed for freshmen. A list of these courses by departments with the figures showing enrollment by courses is given in the Statistics of Course Enrollment.

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

The following table shows the amount of instruction given by the various departments in the past four years. The unit of instruction used is the instruction of one student, one hour a week for one academic year.

The following figures are based on the preceding table and show the relative size of different departments of instruction for the last four years. The departments of Biblical History, English Composition, and Speech owe their places in the first ranks in part to the fact that they are prescribed subjects. The drop of Biblical History from second to sixth place is the result of the change in curriculum requirements since according to the new requirements students need elect only two semesters of Biblical History instead of three.

In September, 1934, the three seniors who had failed the general examination in June passed a second examination; two of them thus completed the work for the B.A. degree and were awarded this degree as of the Class of 1934 at the October meeting of the trustees. The third completed other work later and received her degree in 1935.

In June, 1935, 300 students received the degree of Bachelor of Arts. This makes the total number of Bachelor's degrees conferred by the College, including those awarded in October and in March, 11,860. The academic requirement for this degree is the satisfactory completion of sixty year-hours of class work, and no student is graduated without passing a general examination on a twelve-hour major or a special Honors examination. Members of the Class of 1935 were allowed to plan their program of work for the degree either under the provisions of the so-called "old curriculum" or under the provisions of the "new curriculum" adopted in the spring of 1932.

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

The following table shows the number of students in the Class of 1935 who passed the general examination or the comprehensive examination for Honors in each department.

Of these six, two also failed to make diploma grade standing on account of a deficiency in quality points, and one failed to complete the work of one course.

Of the 300 students who received the B.A. degree in June, 26 won the rank of Durant Honor Scholars, and 58 the rank of Wellesley College Honor Scholars.

There was one junior who spent the year in France and one in Spain. The former of these won first place in the group that went to France under the auspices of the University of Delaware. Since the University of Delaware sent no group of juniors to Germany during the year, Wellesley College had no junior officially registered as continuing her work in Germany; however, one junior did, on her own initiative, attend a German university with the understanding that she would return to Wellesley the following year as a senior.

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF FRESHMEN

To the President of Wellesley College:

I have the honor to submit a report of the class which entered Wellesley College in September, 1934. The class numbered 447 new students and 6 former students who were readmitted with freshman classification. The distribution of the new students according to the type of school preparation is as follows:

Preparation entirely in public high school.....	225
Preparation entirely in private school.....	165
Preparation partly in public and partly in private schools.....	57

The representation from high schools increased again last year, 50 per cent of the new students entering directly from high school. The following table indicates the number of schools represented by the class entering in 1934:

Total number of schools in which preparation was completed...	280
High schools.....	163
Private schools.....	117
Schools in New England.....	70
Schools outside New England.....	210

This year there was a noticeable increase in the number of students using Plan C for admission. Although the plan of admission by Junior Selection has been officially discontinued, one student was permitted to enter by that plan. There were also four exceptional cases of students who were admitted by unclassified methods of admission. The following table indicates the method of admission used by the new students admitted in 1934:

The following table is of interest in comparing the reliability of the various methods of admission. The first column indicates the distribution of the 447 members of the freshman class according to the method of admission; the second column indicates the distribution of the 100 students whose records in June were unsatisfactory; the third column represents the distribution of the freshmen who made an especially strong record in the freshman year.

By vote of the faculty, introductory courses in economics and political science were opened to freshmen this year. The experiment of admitting approved students to psychology or philosophy, economics and political science seems to have been satisfactory. There were no failures reported for freshmen in psychology, only four semester conditions in philosophy and three in economics, and no failures reported for political science. A goodly proportion of freshmen in all of these subjects had records of A or B. Forty-five freshmen were exempted from the second semester's work in English composition because of their excellent records in the first semester. Of these students, 27 elected a grade II course in English composition, 14 elected Psychology 101, 4 elected Philosophy 102. For the first time all the members of the freshman class were given an exemption examination in speech. As a result of this examination 134 freshmen were exempted from the requirement of one hour of speech.

The following table indicates the number of students who failed to reach the standard approved by the College for freshmen:

During the year there were 17 withdrawals from the freshman class. Of these students 3 withdrew on the advice of the administration because of a generally unsatisfactory record, 9 withdrew because of poor health, and 5 for various social reasons such as change of residence of the family. Two students were suspended for disciplinary reasons in June.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANCES L. KNAPP,
Dean of Freshmen.

REPORT ON GRADUATE INSTRUCTION

24 held staff appointments carrying tuition

13 paid tuition

The Committee's duties included as usual the examination of the credentials of candidates for admission to graduate work for degrees of M.A., M.S. in Hygiene and Physical Education, the Certificate of the Department of Hygiene and Physical Education, or as special graduate students; the supervision of students' programs; the consideration of theses; and the recommendation of candidates for degrees. The total number of graduate students for 1934-35 was 59 as compared with the large enrollment of 67 in 1932-33, and the minimum enrollment of 53 in 1933-34. There were in 1934-35 eight special graduate students as compared with six in 1933-34. The Committee feels that progress has been made in administering the work of this group of students which includes those who are taking prerequisite work preparatory to work for a Master's degree, and those who are taking a single course without being candidates for a degree. The latter are, for the most part, persons on staff appointment.

The administering of scholarship and fellowship awards was, for the most part, unusually difficult because of the unusually large number of well qualified applicants. The exception to this rule appeared in the applications for the two Trustee Scholarships which numbered only seven, all from very promising candidates. The scholarships were awarded to Ella Uhler, chemistry; and Lenore A. Epstein, economics, with alternates. A serious question arose this year in connection with these awards as to whether the degree of financial need should be considered in the weighing of candidates.

For the two fellowships (the Alice Freeman Palmer Fellowship and Fanny Bullock Workman Scholarship), there were 31 candidates in all, 15 for the Alice Freeman Palmer Fellowship, 12 for the Fanny Bullock Workman Scholarship, and 4 for both. The number included a large group of admirably competent women, and a small group of really superior candidates. The awards were made as follows: the Alice Freeman Palmer Fellowship to Marjorie Glicksman, B.A., Wellesley College, 1931, in philosophy; and the Fanny Bullock Workman Scholarship to Ruth Whittredge, B.A., Wellesley College, 1929, in French.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

The number of applicants for the tuition scholarships for graduate work was also extraordinarily large, and included so many students of great promise that, contrary to its custom, the Committee awarded all of the scholarships before Commencement.

Among the questions of educational policy considered in the discussion of the Committee was the question as to the comparable significance of grades in scientific and literary departments, with the suggestion that the Committee on Standardization of Marks investigate this matter when it makes its next report.

In considering the work of students during the year, the Committee reaffirmed its intention of living up to the published statement that a scholarship for the second semester would be withdrawn in the case of a student making the equivalent of three C's in the first semester.

Once more the Committee was confronted with unsatisfactory reports of a student holding a foreign student scholarship whose work seemed unsatisfactory because of inattention and irregularity in meeting appointments and fulfilling assignments.

Respectfully submitted,

HELEN SARD HUGHES,
Chairman.

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF RESIDENCE

To the President of Wellesley College:

I have the honor to submit the following report of the Department of Halls of Residence for the year 1934-35.

The year just closed brought to my department the large and interesting problem of providing suitable housing for a sudden increase in the enrollment of the College. Freeman House was taken down in July to make room for the new science buildings, and our capacity was thereby reduced by fifty places. During August and September, Little, Washington, Clinton and Fiske were reopened, furnished, and staffed. Fortunately most of the furnishings came from Freeman and our own storage rooms. Through the skillful direction and untiring work of Miss Margaret Dawson, our professional adviser on decoration, these relics of earlier days were transformed and combined to provide four attractive living rooms which proved very satisfactory. In Fiske the Victorian note was frankly allowed to prevail with surprising success.

Miss Marguerite L. Thomas from Cleveland was made Head of Little; Mrs. Nancy E. Foster took charge of Washington; Mrs. Josephine Brown of Lynchburg, Virginia, was appointed to Clinton; and Miss Amy Kelly, formerly a member of the English department, became Head of Fiske.

In addition to these four new members of the residence staff, there were four other new appointments this year: Mrs. Marguerite Mallett Raymond, at Pomeroy; Mrs. Louise Bolard More, at Stone; Mrs. Henrietta Page Alexander, at Eliot; Miss Isabelle Wiggin, at Noanett. The first three are alumnae of this college, and Miss Wiggin is a graduate of Smith. All have had previous experience as teachers or as executives in schools and colleges. Two transfers were also made in September 1934—that of Mrs. Frances B. Lyman from Freeman to Norumbega, and of Mrs. Genevieve Alvord from Noanett to Beebe.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

These changes were due to the retirement of five Heads in 1934. In June 1935 Mrs. Elizabeth R. Paschal retired after nine years of faithful and devoted service. Since 1929 she has been in charge of a coöperative house, first at Norumbega and then at Munger. Mrs. Paschal has been unusually happy in securing the coöperation of the students in her house, and in maintaining a spirit of loyalty to the College as well as to the house and to herself. It will be difficult to fill her place.

Miss Margaret D. Christian, who has been Assistant Dean of Residence since 1930, resigned this office in June to accept a position as Director of the Brookline Avenue Dormitories in Simmons College. Soon after her graduation in 1915, Miss Christian was secretary of the College Christian Association for two years. She returned to Wellesley in the spring of 1928 as Head of Wood and for the two succeeding years was Head of Webb, serving also as assistant to Miss Tufts, then Dean of Residence. Since 1930 Miss Christian has been Resident in Noanett, and in this capacity has rendered valuable service to the large group of freshmen living in the village. In addition to her duties as Assistant Dean of Residence during the last five years, Miss Christian has served on many committees with both students and faculty, through which she has accomplished a large amount of constructive work and exerted a wide and helpful influence. Her departure is deeply regretted. Her duties will be distributed among various members of the staff for the coming year.

Mrs. Alvord had scarcely taken charge of Beebe when illness overtook her, quickly followed by death. Her loss is keenly felt by all her colleagues. Mrs. Alvord was Head of Fiske for two years, and of Noanett for three years. She brought grace and distinction to each in turn, presiding over her students with rare understanding and serenity of spirit.

A very great loss came to us in January through the sudden death of Miss Tufts whose wisdom has continued to guide us since her withdrawal from active service as our Dean. Her great love of this college, her long and absolute devotion to its interests, her high standards of living and of thinking, her beautiful qualities of mind and heart remain our inspiration.

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF RESIDENCE

The life in our dormitories has been enriched through the entertainment of many guests, and their potential usefulness has been increased in the development of the house libraries. Two hundred and eleven volumes have been added during the year, making a total of 2,500 now installed. The largest gift was from the Providence Wellesley Club which collected and sent to Pomeroy over 100 volumes. In Tower Court an alcove in the balcony was set aside this year to receive the collection of 300 volumes of Italian literature presented to the Circolo Italiano by the Italian Ambassador in behalf of his government.

In coöperation with the Alumnae Association our houses have entertained 388 guests from secondary schools during the year. We have been happy to observe an increasing tendency for students to entertain members of the faculty at dormitory tables rather than in village restaurants. Members of the faculty have been very generous in giving their time for this association with students in the houses. In several houses the faculty visitor has come regularly each week to develop acquaintance with the students. This association is proving of great value to the students. The Heads of Houses have also served as hostesses at Green Hall on Sunday afternoons, receiving as many as fifty guests on several such occasions.

Our statistical study this year was devoted to the consideration of the absences of freshmen from college. The College Government rules permit a freshman to be away overnight six times and to have permission for return to college at one o'clock twice during the first semester. Slightly more freedom is given in the second semester. It is gratifying to find that in the first semester only 32 out of 440 freshmen (7%) took their full quota of leaves of absence. In the second semester this number was reduced to 22, or 4% of the class.

In general there is evidence that our students seem to be learning again to enjoy recreations closely connected with the College. A large number have participated in the weekends planned under the auspices of the Outing Club in the nearby countryside. The College provides these parties with simple picnic supplies so that very little expense need be incurred by the individual student. Groups of from five to forty students have visited Monadnock, Blue Hill, New Hampshire ski-ing resorts or the camp in Ashland which Miss Valentine has so kindly put at the disposal of the Club. We welcome all such indications of concentration of interest in campus affairs and of fuller participation in the privileges of college life.

Respectfully submitted,

MARY C. EWING,
Dean of Residence.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

To the President of Wellesley College:

In spite of the fact that the year was one of continual readjustment, owing to the unusual amount of illness of members of the staff and the absence during the second semester of one of the Associate Librarians, the coöperation of the staff, together with the employment of a substitute assistant, enabled the library to carry on its work successfully. The amount of work done in the Cataloguing Department with two members absent was very creditable; besides the cataloguing of the current accessions, most of the books from the Palmer bequest were also catalogued, and progress made on the recataloguing. The philosophy department selected a number of books from Professor Palmer's library for their office, and after the library had chosen all needed for our shelves, those which remained, together with some from the Hammond bequest, were sold.

Among the more interesting purchases of the year are several sets of early periodicals; two early American magazines, the Museum of Foreign Literature, 29 v., 1823-34, the United States Review and Literary Gazette, 2 v., 1827, and the Seminario Pintoresco Español, 22 v., 1837-51. Les Lettres de Louis XI, 11 v., published by the Société de l'Histoire de France; Rand, E. K., Earliest Book of Tours; the Abridged Compendium of American Genealogy, 5 v.; and Les Constitutions modernes, 5 v., are among the more important acquisitions. Perhaps the most important purchase of the year was a set of the Jesuit Relations, 73 volumes. We have long wanted to possess this important historical source and availed ourselves of an opportunity to acquire it at a reasonable price. The American Ethnological Society Texts, 25 v., add much to our resources in this field. For the Music Library a set of Denkmäler der Tonkunst in Oesterreich, 77 v. and Index, was purchased during the year.

As usual, more gifts have been received from members of the faculty, alumnae, and friends of the College, as well as from our representatives in Congress and many societies and institutions, than can be acknowledged here. Although only a few gifts of special interest are mentioned, our gratitude to the donors of other useful volumes is none the less sincere. Among such gifts are the books from the library of Professor Eleanor Gamble, given by her sister, Mrs. Alexandra Duke, '02; ten volumes from Mrs. E. D. Jump; some twenty volumes given by Miss Margaret H. Jackson, and many single volumes from other friends. Mr. Frederic H. Curtiss again made us his debtors by the presentation of an elephant folio of 106 plates of Audubon's Birds of America, the American edition in one volume, published in 1860 as v. 1, but never completed and now rare. With the stand for it which was thoughtfully included in the gift, this is a notable addition to the Zoölogy Library. A gift from Mr. Curtiss is noted on another page among the additions to the Treasure Room. An edition in Chinese of Henry George's Progress and Poverty from Mrs. Benjamin N. Burger and two other books in Chinese may be of interest to our Chinese students; and through Professor Hart we received from Mrs. Betsey Baird Neville, '08, of the American Embassy, Tokyo, several volumes of ancient Japanese drawings which have been placed in the Art Library. Miss Helen Davis while in Japan purchased for the Botany Library four volumes of plates representing Japanese Architecture and Gardens, to be followed by a fifth volume of which we have received Part 1. A presentation copy from Mr. John Carter of Carter and Pollard's Enquiry into the Nature of Some Nineteenth Century Pamphlets was of especial interest to us as our own Treasure Room furnished Mr. Carter some confirmatory evidence for the investigation while it was in process. Through her secretary, Madame Whitney Hoff of Paris presented us with three beautiful volumes, two of them being the catalogue of her library, beautifully illustrated, one the catalogue of her collections of autographs. The facsimiles in this volume are so perfect that they might easily be mistaken for the original letters, which are nearly all from famous persons. All three volumes are beautiful examples of book making, as well as being interesting and useful for their contents.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

When one of the Italian university groups visited the College in October, they presented to the Italian department a copy of The Universities of Italy, a handsome volume which the department has turned over to the library.

Miss Vida D. Scudder presented to the library her copy of the Golden Book of Tagore, a Homage to Rabindranath Tagore . . . in celebration of his seventieth birthday containing messages from statesmen and men and women of letters all over the world, Miss Scudder being among the contributors.

Three gifts to the Plimpton Collection received during the year from Mr. Plimpton added items of interest in different ways. The copy of Petrarch, secured from the sale of a part of the library of Edward Gibbon, the historian, is of great association interest, having been used in writing the pages devoted to Petrarch in the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire. It has the bookplate of Gibbon. The early edition of the letters (Epistole) of Pope Pius II, Aeneas Silvius Piccolomini, published at Nuremberg in 1496, adds another to our rare editions of works of this author. Of quite different interest is the work entitled America Libera by Alfieri, five odes written in 1781 and 1788. Another Petrarch, an edition of 1586 with Velutello's commentary, was acquired from Professor Palmer's library.

Besides these gifts there were added an early but inexpensive edition of Bartolomeo da San Concordio's Ammaestramenti Antichi, 1585, interesting to us because we own a fifteenth century manuscript of this work; and two Italian romances to add to our unusual collection: Palmerino d'inghilterra, 2 v., 1555 and 1582 (we formerly had but one volume) and Il Fidamante, Poema Eroico by Curtio Gonzaga. In the purchase of these volumes, none of them expensive, the judgment of the present Curator of the Collection was confirmed by Miss Margaret Jackson, the former Curator, whose knowledge of the period of Italian literature covered by the Collection, and of the Collection itself is of great value.

Exhibitions during the year centered in these accessions; "Five hundred years of Petrarch" showing editions from the fifteenth to the twentieth century, and others showing, not only the year's gifts and purchases, but other books or manuscripts from the Collection illustrative of the author or subject of the acquisition.

During the absence of Miss Weed in the second semester, the Treasure Room was not opened regularly but was opened whenever requested, and a graduate student from Harvard spent several afternoons in the room reading in connection with his thesis, one of the library staff in attendance. Seventeen volumes were received as gifts during the year, including twelve books from the Kelmscott Press, the gift of Mr. Frederic H. Curtiss. These were received at a particularly happy time, as Miss Weed was preparing an exhibition to commemorate the centenary of the birth of William Morris. Dr. Thalmann of the German department presented a collection of signed autograph letters from German writers and painters; a student, Miss Marjorie H. Appelgate, '36, gave a document signed by "Stone-wall" Jackson; and two of the poets who gave poet's readings during the year, gave us manuscripts of poems, Mr. Leonard Bacon and Mr. Christopher Morley. The former gave us a poem, Fame, and the latter a sheaf of sonnets as they were first written. They were published pseudonymously with the title Seventeenth Century Exercises, and Mr. Morley writes that only a few persons have ever identified them as his work. In case of a possible future literary controversy, we shall be in a position to speak with authority. In the autumn an exhibition to commemorate the centenary of the deaths of Samuel Taylor Coleridge and Charles Lamb aroused much interest. It was preceded by an exhibition of "Some Great First Editions," and followed by one which showed material relating to Queen Elizabeth and the London of her time. In December an exhibition to commemorate the centenary of the birth of William Morris was placed in the exhibition cases and remained there until late in the spring when a change was made to show some Spanish manuscripts in connection with an exhibition for the classes in Spanish, prepared at the request of the department, to acquaint the students with the work of the Hispanic Society of America, and to show them some of the valuable gifts made to the library by the Society. At commencement time, works of the Brownings were exhibited, as the interest in these authors, stimulated by our possession of so many of their letters, continues unabated. A selection from their correspondence with each other remained in one of the cases throughout the year.

Through the interest of the administration we were enabled to carry out in the Brooks Room some of the improvements mentioned in the last report as desirable. Most of the chairs have been repaired and reupholstered and new curtains provided for the windows. During the summer the walls and ceiling will be refinished so that when the room reopens in the autumn it will be much more attractive. Unfortunately it still lacks rugs for the floor; the addition of these would make the room with its well filled shelves a delight to its users. It is regrettable to have to report that, owing to the disappearance of several books from the shelves, the room was closed for two months during the year. At the end of that time, the College Government Association purchased copies to replace the books still missing, one having been returned surreptitiously in the meantime.

It has been a discouraging year for the library owing to the number of books that have been taken without record from the reserved book shelves in other parts of the building and not returned. A search by heads of the campus houses at the end of the college year resulted in the return of a good many such books, but some are still missing. Conscience works slowly in some cases. During the year two packages containing altogether about twenty-five books, missing for some ten years and long since replaced, were received by mail from fictitious addresses.

The Library Building Committee met three times during the year. At the meeting in November, a questionnaire was prepared for the purpose of ascertaining the needs of different departments in a new building, and was sent to the chairman of each department. At the meeting in March, the chairman presented a composite report of the replies received covering for each department the approximate number of students using the library and the average time each might be expected to spend there; the requirements as to study rooms for students and faculty; and special suggestions for the use of reserved books, relative location of stacks and reading room, provision of newspaper and periodical rooms, etc. It was suggested at this meeting that members of the Committee bring sketches indicating a plan for an ideal library building, showing relative location of rooms, etc. At the meeting in May these plans were discussed and it was decided to ask the Superintendent of Buildings to meet with the Committee in the autumn for the benefit to them of his advice as to the practicality of these plans and their adaptation to the present building and its site.

Many more adjustments in the work of the staff were necessary during the year than usual, owing to illness. Mrs. Hattox was absent the entire year for this reason, and Miss Charlotte Schultz, a graduate of the class of 1934, who had had considerable library experience, came on short notice to take her place and was with us during the year. She was a pleasant addition to the staff as well as an excellent assistant at the desk and elsewhere. Miss Lathrope, the Assistant Cataloguer, was also absent a large part of the year owing to illness, and her place necessarily remained unfilled. The Catalogue Department suffered from both these absences as Mrs. Hattox, in addition to desk attendance, assists in making cards for the catalogue.

During the second semester Miss Weed, Associate Librarian, enjoyed a well-deserved sabbatical leave, spending the time in Europe and specially in England where she spent most of her time in London working on material connected with the unpublished letters of Elizabeth Barrett Browning to John Kenyon which are in the possession of this library. During her absence the Treasure Room was closed except on request, and her place as head of the Circulation Department was very ably filled by Miss Catlin in addition to her other duties. This readjustment was also felt in the Catalogue Department, as in addition to her work as librarian in charge of the botany and zoölogy libraries, Miss Catlin is a valued assistant in this department.

The retirement of Miss Wise which takes place at the end of this year removes a member of the staff who has not only been highly esteemed for her services as Classifier for seventeen years, but who has made many friends in the College by her ready helpfulness in other ways. Miss Jane S. Hawkins, who has been appointed to succeed Miss Wise with the title of Assistant Cataloguer, comes to us highly recommended. She is a graduate of Mount Holyoke College and of the School of Library Service at Columbia University, and her experience includes work in the New York Public Library, at Yale University, and the Queensborough Public Library.

Statistics of the different departments of the library will be found at the end of this report. The work of the Cataloguing Department has already been mentioned. The binding done during the year included eighty-two volumes of League of Nations documents. We have now nearly completed the binding of those received during former years. Comparing the circulation statistics with those for last year, we find a large increase in the circulation in the General Library and in some of the department libraries. The Reference Librarian reports that we made ninety-nine requests for loans of books from other libraries, seventy-nine of which were received. We received twenty-seven requests for loans, of which we were able to supply twenty.

Looking back over a year which was not without its difficulties, this report cannot end without expressing cordial appreciation of the coöperative spirit of the staff and of the cheerfulness with which the work was carried on.

Respectfully submitted,

ETHEL D. ROBERTS,
Librarian.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR OF THE PERSONNEL BUREAU

To the President of Wellesley College:

The Director of the Personnel Bureau has the honor of presenting the following report for the year ending October 31, 1935:

There has been a marked increase this past year in the number of positions that have come to the Bureau from colleges and schools (140 in 1933-34; 173 in 1934-35). The calls for colleges increased from 25 to 40; for secondary schools from 63 to 73; for elementary private schools (especially through the Coöperative Bureau in New York) from 6 to 9. There were more calls from junior colleges and normal schools; two from a college for negroes; and several from foreign colleges (Turkey, Bulgaria, Japan). There was a decided increase in the number of calls received from public secondary schools (from 14 to 25), while the number of calls from private secondary schools remained about the same (49 in 1934; 48 in 1935). More calls from private schools came to the Bureau indirectly through agencies, making the total number from private schools greater than in the preceding year.

In the special teaching group, there was an increase in the number of positions in secretarial schools for teachers with college degrees. Calls were received as usual from schools in the southern mountains, and from mission schools. Since these were able to pay only small salaries or merely living expenses, few candidates could consider these posts. It is encouraging to note an increase in calls for teachers of art, music, speech, dramatics. At least two for teachers of speech were prompted by the recitals of our Verse-Speaking Choir.

The Bureau placed 26 teachers (15% of the calls) which is the same as in 1933-34. These placements included 5 in colleges or junior colleges, 2 in secondary public schools, 10 in secondary private schools, 7 in special teaching (southern mountains, typing, governess, tutoring, Y. W. C. A.), and 2 in apprenticeships. The salaries offered were about the same as in the preceding year, although there seemed to be a tendency to make some increases and to restore the salary schedule gradually.

In the non-teaching field, also, there was an increase in the total number of calls (from 174 to 184), and an increase (from 76 to 93, or 22%) in the number of placements. The greatest number of calls in this group was for secretaries. Indeed, there were more calls for well-trained secretaries than could be filled. Business calls increased, those for department stores declined, as did also those in educational administration. Two important executive positions were available, one for a general secretary of a large Y. W. C. A. and another for an executive secretary of a junior league, both offering large salaries. Laboratory technicians were more in demand, there were positions for research in physics and chemistry, and three calls for personnel workers, one in an industrial concern. Miscellaneous calls included a hostess in a large hotel, companions, a private detective, and a young actress to act in moving pictures in the tropics. In general, there was improvement in the opportunities offered in the non-teaching field and an increase in salaries, from the range $600-$4000 in 1933-34, to $728-$5000 in 1934-35.

Taking the class of 1935 as a special group, the tendency is still marked away from teaching and toward business (24 have teaching positions; 73 non-teaching). Economic necessity has emphasized a tendency which had been showing itself before the depression. Now the department stores and the offices claim by far the majority of the employed in each class as it leaves Wellesley. In 1935, 19 entered store work and 26 went into offices. Stores and offices are open to practically all college women who want to enter them, and it will not be strange if these preferences continue for a long time.

It is encouraging to find in this connection the growing acceptance of the necessity of professional training for teaching and social service. In the case of teaching this is borne out by the decline of the apprenticeship in favor of courses of training such as that at the Coöperative School for Student Teachers and similar places, and the regard only for apprenticeships that are outstanding as training courses.

The general situation, so far as positions are concerned, seems more hopeful than in 1933-34. More positions and better salaries seem to mark an upward turn. The type of teaching positions is particularly to be noted, the increase from 25 to 40 in calls from colleges, as well as the excellent type of secondary schools which have sought candidates at Wellesley.

In undergraduate employment, the summer work increased in volume of registration, calls, and placements. The experiment with F. E. R. A. brought out certain avenues of activity for students and emphasized the needs of certain departments, but upon the whole the income derived seemed not in proportion to the work brought upon the Personnel Bureau and other offices in administering it. A solution, more suited to the needs of the college, is now being worked out by the Scholarship Committee, and the Personnel Bureau is relieved of a real burden of detailed supervision.

The Committee on Vocational Information has consisted, as for several years, of the Director and the Associate in the Personnel Bureau, and fifteen student members chosen from the four classes. There were in all 34 meetings, 4 field trips, and 4 series of individual conferences with representatives of training schools. Seven of the meetings were held in connection with the departments of Speech, Education, English Composition, Music, Biblical Literature, Botany, and Hygiene, respectively, and one with the Lecture Committee. Two members of the faculty, and five of the alumnae served as speakers. Miss Florence Jackson again gave a series of discussions and conferences, and after-dinner talks to freshmen upon How to Choose a Vocation. The average attendance, exclusive of Miss Jackson's discussions, was about one hundred.

The Come-and-See program for becoming acquainted with social work in Boston was offered this year on March 25-27, giving opportunity for four girls to participate. The New England Junior Month was again carried on by the Family Welfare Society of Boston, and Wellesley sent a representative. A member of the Junior class was entertained as a guest, with all expenses paid for two weeks in June, by the School of Nursing of Western Reserve University which offered this new opportunity for gaining first-hand information about a vocation.

In the individual conferences with the students, the Bureau has had the help of the Dean of the College, who interviewed the sophomores in Pomeroy and Tower Court, in all about 65. All others were carried on by the Director and the Associate in the Bureau. In the case of the seniors, conferences were held with the class, in connection with registration, of which 89% availed themselves. The Appointment Secretary also spends a considerable part of her time in conferences with undergraduates and alumnae.

The Personnel Bureau was included in the program for Freshman Week, and two tests were given the new students—the Bernreuter Personality Inventory and the Allport and Vernon Study of Values. The Consultant in Psychology will undertake again, as two years ago, to have the Personality Inventory scored in her classes as practical work. It was found that the expense of having the scoring done by paid workers was so great that it seemed somewhat out of proportion to the test's usefulness. On the other hand, the Inventory shows interesting possibilities, and it is hoped that the Psychology department may give us the results reasonably soon. The Consultant has been carrying on an investigation of "lateral dominance" in students in which she has made use of the scores of the Bernreuter Personality Inventory given to 1938 by the Personnel Bureau. The study is still in progress.

Other tests were offered during the year to the other classes, namely, a Social Intelligence Test, a Clerical Test, and a Teaching Aptitude Test. As in former years, the Bureau directed the Medical Aptitude Test of the Association of American Medical Colleges and the Law Capacity Examination. Seven seniors took the medical test. Of these, three are in medical schools, one in New York University School of Medicine, one in Boston University Medical School, and one in Johns Hopkins. From one no report has been received. One of the seniors took the Legal Test and is now in the Yale Law School. The Bureau also arranged for the examination for approval in oral work in modern languages, required by New York. Two students took the examination for French.

The Personnel Bureau took the opportunity offered by the Alumnae Office to send out a questionnaire to all alumnae in order to bring the Occupational Index up to date. Up to the present time 3525 replies have been received, and these are now being classified according to occupations.

An Appendix to the pamphlet "Laws and Regulations Concerning State Certification of Teachers in High Schools and Junior High Schools" has been prepared by the Associate in the Bureau, bringing the work up to date, a necessity occasioned by the continual changes in state legislation regarding these requirements. The preparation entailed a great volume of correspondence and required considerable skill in reducing the laws to outline form. The work was finished in January, mimeographed and offered for sale. Up to the present, 34 copies have been sold mainly to Eastern colleges and universities, though there was some demand from the Middle West and South.

Some dissatisfaction has been felt with the rating blank used in connection with the credentials for seniors, and some time has been spent by the Associate and the Director in constructing a new form with the help of the Consultant in Psychology. The aim was to have something that was useful and fairly analytic and at the same time demanding only a reasonable amount of time from the faculty. The new form was used in January and immediately elicited some warm commendations.

At the invitation of the author, the Director wrote a section for a forthcoming book by Mr. J. E. Walters of Purdue University on Educational Personnel Procedures, in which she dealt with the personnel work at Wellesley College as an example of such an organization in an eastern woman's college. An article was contributed to the Wellesley Magazine for June 1935 on the Vocational Plans and Preferences of a Class in College. The Director spoke at the Springfield Wellesley Club in December upon the work of the Personnel Bureau.

No meeting of the Personnel Board was called during the year, but two studies have been pushed forward and are in form for early discussion. One of these deals with Wellesley graduates who have entered department stores; the other with the success of graduates in actual teaching as compared with their scores in the Teaching Aptitude Test. The results of a questionnaire in connection with this last subject are now being correlated by the class in Educational Tests of the Department of Education.

This, the final report to the present administration, cannot come to a close without a sincere expression of gratitude to our President for unfailing support and counsel and generous interest in the development of the Personnel Bureau.

Respectfully submitted,

ALICE I. PERRY WOOD,
Director.

APPENDIX TO THE PRESIDENT'S REPORT

NEW PLAN OF ENTRANCE SUBJECTS

The plan of entrance subjects proposed by Wellesley College is designed to give the student a foundation for various fields of study in the liberal arts college. Since most college applicants have good general ability in several lines of work and are uncertain when they enter college where their interests in more advanced study may lead, it is important for them to secure in secondary school such training and information as will give them an introduction to several fields of study and such fundamental courses as will open to them the greatest freedom of election in college. All students should offer a minimum of 15 entrance units*, chosen in general according to the following plan:

English.....	3 units
Foreign Language.....	5 units
Latin or Greek.....	3 units
*A modern language.....	2 units
French; German; Italian; Spanish
History.....	1 unit
Mathematics.....	3 units
Algebra.....	2 units
Plane Geometry.....	1 unit
Science.....	1 unit

This plan allows every student 2 elective units for additional work in the fields which she believes have greatest value for her. Since most students complete more than 15 units in secondary school there is usually even wider opportunity for election. This plan recommended by the College as the normal admission program is to be followed by all candidates for admission with the possible exceptions indicated below. An exception to the normal program either in foreign language or in mathematics or in science is allowed to students who meet the conditions stated in paragraph (1) or paragraph (2) below. Any other exceptions necessitate a special permission from the Board of Admission.

(1) Students from schools emphasizing sequences of work in the natural sciences and mathematics or whose individual interests and abilities are centered in these fields may substitute for the language requirement indicated above a choice of any 5 units from the following group: French 2 or 3 units; German 2 or 3 units; Latin 2 units.

(2) Students definitely interested in the fields of language, literature, the arts, or social sciences who wish to increase their offering in these fields more than the free electives permit may offer in mathematics 2 units only, provided the course includes both algebra and plane geometry; or they may offer 3 units of mathematics and omit the unit of science. Students interested in economics, mathematics, or science should offer at least 3 units of mathematics for admission.

*A single unit of language is not accepted for admission credit.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

In the elective group of units the College will be glad to accept additional units in any of the subjects listed in the normal program or 1 or 2 units of art or music, a unit of Biblical history, and 1 or 2 units in the social sciences besides history. Students interested primarily in languages, literature, and the arts are advised to offer for admission 4 units of Latin and 2 units of history, of which 1 unit should be European history.

The Board of Admission is interested also to consider courses which do not follow the published descriptions of unit requirements in subjects as they are indicated in the Calendar, especially if such courses are organized as sequences of study in given fields.

The College wishes to coöperate with schools and applicants for admission in their effort to organize such programs of study as will further the real educational needs of students in their secondary school course and will also give an adequate basis for continuing their work in college. Students are urged to discuss their plans of work early in their secondary school course with their school advisers and to confer also with the College Board of Admission. In advance of correspondence with individual students, the Board will welcome from the school principals information about unusual curricular plans or courses which the schools recommend to their college groups.

TO THE TRUSTEES OF WELLESLEY COLLEGE:

The Treasurer submits the following report of the financial operations of the College for the year ended June 30, 1935.

JAMES DEAN,
Treasurer.

TO THE TRUSTEES OF WELLESLEY COLLEGE:

A review of the year 1934-35 shows the period to be one of quiet achievement with few, if any, financial high lights. Legacies and gifts received through the year amounted to $241,114. Continued economy with, however, no reduction in staff or decrease in salaries enabled the College to maintain its usual activities along customary lines and to close the year with a small surplus.

Plant. The main addition to our plant is the new Chemistry-Physics-Psychology Building. Although not the last of the Semi-Centennial objectives, this construction marks the completion of the major portion of the Semi-Centennial building program. Planned and executed with minute care, the libraries, lecture-rooms, and laboratories of this new science hall offer rare opportunities for study, research, and service. The old Chemistry Building, erected 1894 as a "temporary" structure and the old Alpha Kappa Chi House, used these many years by the Department of Philosophy and Psychology, will now disappear from the campus. The reserve fund for depreciation, in addition to various minor items, has made possible much-needed improvements in plumbing, heating, and refrigeration in Simpson Infirmary, and in the Hazard Quadrangle renewal of one more stack of bath-rooms and replacement of all refrigeration. The increase in value of movable equipment results from bringing book figures into agreement with an actual, conservatively-valued inventory taken, as usual, at the end of a five-year period.

Funds and Investments. That portion of legacies and gifts added to funds amounted to $221,723. The largest gift was an anonymous fund of $124,500 now subject to annuities, but ultimately entirely unrestricted as to use. We are again deeply indebted to Miss Jessie Munger '86 for her additional gift of $75,000 to replace a part of the reserved unrestricted funds used in the erection of Munger Hall. Profit on the sale of securities covered the loss for the previous year on such sales and established a credit balance of $35,002 in the investment reserve fund. There has been some change in the relative proportion of investments, an increase in stocks of 4.25 per cent, with a corresponding decrease in all of the other classes of investments. On June 30, 1935, the conservative market value of investments was 8.37 per cent below book value, a gain of 1.9 per cent over figures of the previous year.

Income and Expenditures. The increase in income came primarily from increase in student registration which was larger than for two years, and which showed a gain of 2.39 per cent over that of 1933-34. The allocation of $500 for tuition and $500 for board and room caused a decrease in income from dormitories with a corresponding increase in receipts from tuition. The total gross income increased from that of the previous year by 2.41 per cent, while the gross distribution increased by 2.56 per cent. There was also a slight gain in income from investments and from miscellaneous items. The comparison for two years in income from different sources is interesting.

		Percentage of Total		Percentage of Total
Students	$1,357,551	72.35	$1,327,263	72.44
Investments	397,464	21.18	395,014	21.56
Miscellaneous	121,428	6.47	109,977	6.00
	<hr/>		<hr/>
	$1,876,443	100.00	$1,832,254	100.00

Although using a lower rate, we increased the reserve for depreciation, and reduced to $23,000 the amount of endowment funds invested in dormitories.

The fact that, in these chaotic days, the College has been enabled to proceed quietly, and with a measure of success, is in itself a tribute to the careful guidance of those who lead and the cheerful compliance of those who follow.

Respectfully submitted,

EVELYN A. MUNROE,
Assistant Treasurer.
